INTERNSHIP OPPORTUNITIES SHARED WITH RTIP STUDENTS

Tucson, AZ — Leslie Janecka, coordinator of KEMI (Kentucky Equine Management Internship), spoke to students in ANS 444, Management of the Racing Animal on Tues, Sept. 25 about the opportunities for hands-on internships at major thoroughbred farms in the heart of the bluegrass of Kentucky. Internships are offered both during the spring, centering on broodmares and the breeding season, as well as the fall, offering students the opportunity to get experience in the sales side of the industry.

Her message on making an internship a successful one is based on giving 100 percent attention and effort to all the tasks assigned and taking advantage of all the extra opportunities that arise. Following her advice is returning great dividends to KEMI participants as over 90 percent of the students get a job offer at the completion of their internship.
